A unique combination of apps Bronze Tools is a package of utilities based on the idea of combining different programs that address specific needs. In this case, the developers focused on bringing together reliable editing and icon design tools, a backup and sync solution, and a multi-purpose personal assistant, helping users increase efficiency and boost productivity. A reliable sync and backup tool One of the apps included in Bronze Tools is Twin Folders, an icon editor with tools that make it easy to work on the pictures contained in a folder. In addition to Windows Vista, you can sync and backup folders to FTP servers or NAS storage drives. The IconEdit2 is a TrueColor icon editor that can help you create great-looking icons and quickly edit their properties. Designed to support a wide range of graphic formats, it is a trustworthy solution for creating your own artwork. A comprehensive disc burning and copying toolset The bundle also includes Bronze Disc Copy and Bronze Disc Burner, reliable tools that allow you to create and burn discs with a few mouse clicks. They also provide features for managing backups. Another app that comes with the package is Desktop Fay, a cartoon desktop assistant that can act as an e-mail client and an event reminder, and is also very useful for sending incoming messages and reminders. Virtual personal assistant Last but not least, the collection also includes an application called Desktop Fay. This assistant is able to perform the basic functions of a secretary, ready to let you know about unread messages and upcoming events. Poor performance of summer primary school children in the subtests of the Seoul Children's Color Test, and its associated factors in middle school. Since the Color Test is the test of choice to evaluate color vision for both diagnosis and prevention of hereditary color vision deficiencies, there has been a pressing need to examine Color Test performance in childhood. In a study on 120 children, mean age of  $10.6 \pm 0.6$  years, Color Test performance was analyzed, and the association between Color Test performance and gender, age, and the parents' level of education was examined. The total Color Test score was significantly higher in males than in females. In addition, when the level of the parents' education was compared, the total Color Test score was significantly higher in parents with higher educational levels. The sex of the child, parents' educational levels, and the family's socioeconomic status may be associated with Color Test performance. In this study, the authors consider that Color Test performance in childhood needs to be examined in a larger sample.
